An adventure featuring four ports of call and two overnight stays, cruise inland to reach some of the best parts of Belgium and Holland. There are exciting experiences on the menu, including opportunities to sample authentic Belgian chocolates and view iconic spring tulips.

Soon after leaving Dover you'll arrive into beautiful Antwerp, with an overnight stay allowing time to explore at your own pace. Within reach is the main square, the Grote Markt, with its intricate guildhouses; and the mighty Cathedral of Our Lady. The likes of the Royal Museum of Fine Arts and the legendary diamond district are recommended as some of the city's most prized possessions. The optional all-encompassing city tour combines some of these fascinating landmarks with the chance to taste delicious Belgian chocolates. A day in Ghent delivers more tempting attractions, including artisan chocolatiers; it's your gateway to historic Bruges, too.

In contrast to the medieval facades of Belgium, Rotterdam brings futuristic architecture to the fore – with the unusual Cube Houses and Markthal – before this itinerary finishes with a flourish in Amsterdam. Here you can meet haunting history at the Anne Frank House; join a leisurely scenic canal cruise; or take in the sights by bicycle. The undoubted highlight however is the chance to visit Keukenhof Gardens when the colourful tulips are in bloom. This 32-hectare site is home to over six million bulbs, plus trees, themed gardens and unique flower shows too.
